Campo Viejo™

Bodegas Campo Viejo

Its spectacular architecture and the effectiveness of its modern winemaking processes make Campo Viejo a cutting-edge winery immersed in the new culture of wine. The recovery of traditional processes - such as the use of gravity to move the grapes and the winery's underground construction - is indicative of intelligence at the service of final outcomes. Possibly one of the best wineries in the world, it is located at the heart of La Rioja, in an area that is ideally suited for growing grapes and making and ageing wine. In 2011, Bodegas Campo Viejo became the first Spanish winery to certify its carbon footprint to the ISO-14064 standard. This initiative forms part of the programme 'Campo Viejo: Medioambiente y Sostenibilidad' (Campo Viejo: Environment and Sustainability) which started 10 years ago with the inauguration of the new facilities.

Vineyards

Campo Viejo has some 300 hectares of own vineyards. The winery sources additional grapes (2.500 has) from local winegrowers. Most of our vineyard consists of old vines, over 25 years old, and mainly of the Tempranillo variety. The vines are arranged in plots, cultivated in line with previously-determined criteria so that each grape is designed for a particular type of wine. In the tied vineyards, the vine growth cycle is carefully monitored and a series of growing guidelines are laid down for each parcel.

Grape Variety

The Tempranillo grapes makes up 61% of the vineyards of the Denomination. It is regarded as an autochthonous variety of La Rioja. It has an open, honest palate, interesting in young wines and velvety when aged. Other typical varieties of the D.O. are Garnacha, Graciano, Mazuelo and Viura.
